JULICO MINERS RIT EN TO WORK

The Colonel Opposed to Republican Nomi-Ination for the State Senate_Borland for Congress in Second District.

NORFOLK, VA., Sept. 21.-Special.-It believed here that Colonel William Lamb would not object to forming a Republican and Prohibition alliance in this district, the Republicans to back the Prohibition candidate for the State Senate, and the Prohibitionists to back the Republican candidate for Congress.

publican candidate for Congress.

For some time past Colonei Lamb has not been satisfied with pointies in general, and the public would not be astonished if at any time he should attempt to form a new party. He has the most remarkable record of any man in eastern Virginia. In his young manhood he was a Democrat of Democrats, a Seceasionist of Secessionists, and a gallant soldier in the Confederate army. During the reconstruction period he was a passive Democrat, and then, after years of political inactivity, he was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress to succeed John Goode. He was disappointed, and was next a Democratic Readjuster and in a discussion at Princess Anne Courthouse with General Fitz Lee, proclaimed that he was a better Democrat than General Lee, and was grossly insuited because General Lee charged that he was going into the Republican party. When the time came for the division of the Readfusters, Colonel Lamb went with Mahone instead of Dr. Massey, and was a Readjuster Republican, and later a full-fledged Republican.

HIS TALK OF REVIVING THE WHIG PARTY.

At a convention of Republicans of Norfolk, recently held at Paris Hall, Colonel Lamb advised the Republicans not to make a nomination for the State Senate, but let the Prohibition Reformers defeat the Democrats a second time. He further said that, while he was not a Prohibitionist, or a tetotaler, who would refuse to drink another drop of liquor so long as he should live, if thereby he might accomplish the destructor of the Democratic party.
Colonel Lamb refused to accept the Republican nomination for Congress, and it is thought that he has his weather eye upon Samuel Small's brigade.

BORLAND WILL BE THE MAN.

BOBLAND WILL BE THE MAN. Mr. T. R. Borland will be the Republican nominee for Congress. The Prohl's say that they have alreadys selected a strong man, but nobody outside of their party believes it, but that they will support the Republican candidate, and the Republicans will reciprocate by voting for their man for the State Senate.

The Democratic party is in good shape and prepared to whip any combination that may, or can be, made.

LYNCHBURG, VA., Sept. 21.—Special.—
Jim Haden (colored) was shot and probably fatally wounded by Henry Hobson at the latter's home Sunday night. Hobson had noticed that some marauder had been trying to steal his corn from his field on Saturday, and laid for the gullty party with an old musket loaded with slugs.

Last hight he caught Jim Haden and Lewis Herndon in the corn-field, and promptly opened fire. The first load took effect in the face of Haden, putting out one eye and cutting up his head fearfully. Ten slugs entered the man's head, which to-day is twice its natural size, and his condition is exceedingly critical. Herndon escaped without a wound, but fired twice at Hobson as he fled from the field. He has been arrested.

THE BURTON MURDER TRIAL.

PREDERICKSBURG, VA., Sept. 24.—
Special.—The Burton murder trial ended on Baturday. After the instructions, of which there were nine for the prosecution and ten for the defence, were given, the argument was opened by Mr. John E. Mason for the prosecution. He was followed by Mr. William A. Little, Jr., and St. George R. Fitzhugh for the defence. The theory of the defence was that Payne was seeking by violence to enter the home of Burton, and that in the attempt to prevent him from doing so Payne was killed, and therefore the homicide was justifiable.

Mr. W. Seymour White, Common wealth's Attorney for Stafford, closed the case for the prosecution. The jury, after being out for half an hour, returned with a verdict of involuntary manslaughter, and fixed the punishment at a fine of two hundred doilars. The verdict seemed to give satisfaction to Mr. Burton's many friends.

Round 3.—Plimmer became the aggressor, landing a right body punch, and sending in right and left a moment later. Both men landed lefts, though Plimmer got the lest of the exchange. Plimmer punched Murphy at will all over the ring, and the Boston bantam looked the worse for wear at the end of the round.

Round 4.—Plimmer forced the fighting from the start, being much the stronger of the two, though Murphy got in one or two good right-handers on the jaw. In the fiddle of the ring Murphy ducked into a heavy left-hand upper-out, and got much the worst of the encounter. At the end of the round there was a rapid exchange of blows, and close fighting followed. Murphy's blows lacked steam, though his science was of the neatest order. This was Plimmer's round.

The readers of The Times will remember the interview with Colonel Lamb some months ago, in which he declared his purpose to reorganize the old Whig party. He said he would rally around him the young blood of the State, and his party would divide the white vote, which he thought highly destrable.

In an interview with a reporter of the Portsmouth Star, Colonel Lamb said that had he not been hindered by sickness, he would have had the Prohibitionists, Republicans, Populists, and discontented Democrats organized into a solid party for this fall's campaign, and the old Whig party again in fighting trim.
